Steamboat Disaster.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec 2—The steamer Charles Morgan has arrived from Cincinnati. Her officers report that at 4 o'clock yesterday morning a collision occurred at Bringer's Bend, opposite Donaldsonville between the steamer Cotton Valley, of the Red River Transportation Company's line. The Cotton Valley sank in 20 feet of water. Two lives lost boat and cargo a total loss. The Cotton Valley left here Saturday for Red river with a full assorted cargo and a number of passengers

The collision occurred the wind was blowing a gale and rain was falling in torrents at the time. The Morgan was coming down and the Valley going up. The boats were rounding a point when the officers of each boat seeing the danger of collision, stopped the machinery, but the force of the wind and headway of the Morgan was so great that her guards struck the Valley with great force causing the latter to sink in about ten minutes. The Valley was valued at $40 and insured for $10 000 Her cargo was valued at $75,000, insurance unknown

Shippers' War on the Railroads.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2—The feeling of eastern shippers is very strong against the Pacific railroad combination to break up Cape Horn rates, and at a meeting to be held at an early date it will be proposed, in view of the fact that grain can be carried from San Francisco to Europe and pay expense, to now restore the tariff on goods from New York to a point on the Pacific coast, making up on California and Oregon freight what it loses on New York to San Francisco bills of lading This means a fight strongly urged on South street from all quarters, and at the probable appearance of the shipowners of the Pacific Mail the matter will be considered and rates fixed at such rates that railways cannot compete without great and constant loss. Owners claim that they are able to do this as the Pacific Mail for freights because of tolls to be taken via Panama require han[illegible] times

The Presidential Outlook.

WASHINGTON, Dec 2 — The Enquirer this morning publishes ten columns of interviews with leading men of the south on the presidential prospects for 1880 The result shows a decided Democratic side shows the choice to be pretty evenly between Thurman and Hendricks, with Senator Bayard as next, and Tilden and Hancock having some adherents. The persons interviewed are unanimous in stating that the south will claim a majority of the next Democratic convention and that the Republican candidates Grant has advantages and fairly lends them all to his Blaine is entitled to a place Conkling follows Blaine at some distance

Promotions in the Army.

WASHINGTON, Dec 1—A recent dispatch stated that the secretary of war has given instructions to the army to clerks in contravention of law, is evidently based upon misinformation. There is a force known as the signal service force, which consists of persons regularly enlisted in the military service and detailed for clerical duty at the various stations of the army and in the department at Washington The secretary having no control as to the eligibility of non commissioned officers of this force to promotion to the line, submitted the question to his predecessor, who referred it to the judge advocate general of the army, who in an opinion held them eligible. Upon this opinion a number of promotions have been made although there are a number of meritorious applicants from the line. The young man nominated is under the age of 21 years, and of course, the senate will consider the question of his eligibility and if that body should hold him ineligible he will not be appointed. It is proposed to make this a test case.

Senator Blaine's Bill.

WASHINGTON, Dec 2—The following is the text of Senator Blaine's bill regarding presidential elections

That the judiciary committee be instructed to inquire and report to the senate whether any of the provisions of the constitutional rights of citizens were violated in any of the late elections, and whether the right of suffrage of citizens of the United States or of any class of citizens was denied or abridged by the action of any of the election officers of any state in refusing to receive their votes in failing to count the same, in miscounting and counting fraudulent ballots, in the existence of a conspiracy to make the law inoperative for the protection of such citizens of no effect, and whether such citizens were prevented from exercising the right to vote freely by reason of force, or forcibly to use it against their will by reason of violence or threats, or hostile demonstrations of any military force, department, or other organizations or by any other means or practice.

That the said judiciary committee be further instructed to inquire and report whether it is the duty of congress to provide by law for a more perfect security of the rights of citizens of the United States to vote in the union.

That the committee shall have the right to send for persons and papers

Bonds for the Brokers.

Beck's bill regarding the trade dollar provides a period of twelve months for the redemption of the act that outstanding trade dollars be receivable as a legal tender for all debts and demands including dues of the United States

SOUTHERN OREGON MINING NOTES

The Squaw Lake Ditch Co received 600 feet more of hydraulic pipe this week

Beck bros have repaired the recent break in their dam and are strengthening the works

The Centennial Mining Co, in the Willow Springs district has its hydraulic in position and now awaits the winter rains.

The miners are anxiously awaiting water, though many of them have not completed preparations for the winter's work as yet

Gin Lin has been piping since the rains of a few weeks ago, but the recent cold spell has been quite unfavorable for extensive operations

J E Beggs recently brought the Sterling Company's monster derrick from Roseburg It weighs near 5 000 pounds and can handle boulders of uncommon size with ease

Kahler Robb & Co at the Palmer creek mines are now putting in another flume The pipe is about laid and when the fluming is complete this company will be ready for operations

The cold frosty weather has retarded mining operations somewhat But little water was afforded by the rains that preceded though the streams all raised perceptibly for the time being

The survey of Magruder Owen & Co's ditch has proceeded as far as Henry York's on Applegate It is estimated that it will bring up near the bridge across that stream The length of the ditch approximates 48 miles

The Grand Applegate ditch company are pushing their work with commendable energy Their pipe and grant are on the ground and as soon as three miles of ditch are completed they will be prepared to go to sluicing

Rodenberger Criteser & Rists ditch from Tom East creek to their claims in the Grave creek district three miles distant is completed and a fair head of water now running through it The company is putting on 1 800 feet of pipe and a little giant

Lawrence Grobt & Co, who have extensive placer mines on Illinois creek on Wednesday sent out a load of supplies in charge of Jimmy Leslie also interested The company will renew prospecting their ground and may do some substantial work this winter

Messrs Robb and Brogan, of the Hamilton claim near Uniontown were in town Saturday They report work on their diggings progressing satisfactorily and expect every thing to be ready when the rains set in The hydraulic pipe is being put up by A Megle who intends completing the job in a short time

Wm Bybee and Isaac Irwin have recently purchased the placer diggings of Henry Wines at the head of Jump-off-Joe creek and will put up a small hydraulic on them this winter. A ditch one mile in length is now being brought in and will afford enough water for the present, though it is proposed to extend it some further hereafter

THE XLV. CONGRESS.

Opening Day—General Proceedings—Bermuda Wood Gets the First Say

WASHINGTON Dec

The senate assembled at 12 M

Anthony and Bayard were appointed a committee to join the house committee and notify the president that congress has assembled

Bills had to the table reading the appointment of committee.

By Beck—To provide for retiring the trade dollar and for its coinage into standard silver dollars also to authorize the exchange of foreign built ships by citizens of the United States

The vice president laid before the senate the credentials of Hon Justin S Morrill elected U S senator from vermont for six years from March 4 1879 and it was placed on file

Bills by senators and to lay were Barnum Cockrell Conkling Gordon, Hunt Jones of Nevada, Kernan Merrimon Patterson Plumb Sargent Sharon Spencer and White

By Voorhees—A resolution instructing the committee on finance to inquire into the expediency of making the trade dollar a legal tender for all debts public and private, and of providing for its recoinage into the standard silver dollars of 41 grains

By Blaine—A resolution instructing the judiciary committee to report to the senate whether at the recent elections the constitutional rights of any citizen were violated in any state and what further legislation is necessary to protect the citizens in their constitutional rights at elections

Upon reconsidering the message of the president was received and read The reading concluded the message was laid on the table and ordered printed Adjourned

House

The house galleries to day contained the customary crowd at the opening of a session of congress At noon Speaker Randall rapped the house to order when the chaplain made a prayer and the roll was called

The roll call showed 292 members present Two new members Bailey and Majors then took the ironclad oath

A committee was appointed to inform the president that congress was in session

After recess the president's message was received from private secretary Rogers and read

When the reading of the message was ended Wood of New York, rose and moved that it be referred to a committee of the whole, house and ordered printed But Sirs, he desired to make some comments upon it At how late a whole the document was filled, my satisfactory yet there were some references in it which should be acted on at the earliest practicable moment He referred to the part relating to the southern state. He (Wood) failed to see what the president saw—any disposition in the south to avoid or annul in any degree the constitutional amendments. He failed to see any indication in the south of unwillingness to live in entire amity with the whole country in regard to laws or to obey the government. He regretted that the president who had commenced his administration with such a noble and patriotic position as against the military despotism exercised by his predecessor should now indicate a change of policy He knew there was a wing of the Republican party dissatisfied with that position and it had been a matter of interest to the whole country to know whether the president would continue obviously maintain his attitude While the president expressed his views in very mild and very decorous language, yet he indicated quite clearly that the condition of things in the south was not satisfactory to him The president had referred especially to the elections in South Carolina and Louisiana He had been able to single out two states and only two solitary instances in those states That was an indication of vacillation on the part of the executive and it was only because it was such an indication that he (Wood) felt it his duty to declare that there was no foundation for the allegation of wrong by the south It was to be regretted that while the president's eyes were open to the congressional elections in the south they were closed to what occurred in the city of New York on the 5th of November

Garfield characterized it as very unusual to interrupt the ordinary form of proceeding by debating any suggestions of the message. The exact language of that part of the message with which the gentleman found fault was not in his mind but the language was very plain—invited to these things from careful reading of the papers he believed considerable disturbances had occurred in the south notably open intimidation in South Carolina His was a charge thrown broadcast over the land and a congress so voted for investigation as this one should examine

A motion to refer and to print the message was agreed to

The military academy and fortification appropriation bills were reported and notice of early action given Adjourned

THE BANKS AFTER JANUARY FIRST

A PLAIN STATEMENT OF WHAT THEY EXPECT TO DO ABOUT RESUMPTION

[From the N Y World Nov 11]

In relation to the action of the city banks after the resumption of specie payments by the government Mr Robert Bliss the vice president of the bank of New York was yesterday asked

Suppose I am a depositor and on January 2 1879 I offer for deposit in your bank fifty trade silver dollars will they be refused?

No we would take them as a special deposit to be paid in the same coin Trade dollars by the way would not be received at all except as a special deposit for they are not a legal tender

How would it be with fifty full coinage dollars?

We should receive them to be paid off in the same coin

How if I offer subsidiary silver coin?

We would not take it all that is not over $5 worth to make change

Suppose I am a dealer and present a check for $500 on January 2 1879 and ask for gold shall get it?

Yes if the government resumes

How will the daily banking in the city of New York differ if at all from the banking of 1860?

It won't differ any it will be just as it was then only its volume will be largely increased

Are the national banks likely to retire their one and two dollar bills after resumption?

Not if they can help it, not unless they are compelled to for they are a very great convenience It depends entirely upon the action of the government upon the silver bill

They were Satisfied about their Money

During the recent panic in Lancashire a lady who had a considerable sum on deposit went to her bank and told the manager that she needed all her money and that she would have it The sum was promptly placed before her whereupon she remarked 'No I won't take it out now' and the gold was replaced The lady left the bank convinced that the money was safe because as she thought she had seen it Perhaps the most ludicrous incident occurred at the Bank of England A person who had a deposit at the bank became alarmed as to the solvency of the institution and protected himself by drawing out the amount—in bank notes He is probably a limed Descendant of the Irishman who, desiring to see revenged on an unpopular banker, bought up and destroyed his notes One very comical incident is reported. A man who had a deposit in the local branch of a Manchester bank hastily withdrew the amount and posted to Manchester, where he deposited it in the head office of the same bank His explanation was that he thought the small banks would go first

SAN FRANCISCO Dec 2—It is ascertained in banking circles here that the importation of trade dollars from China to New York has been commenced Two hundred thousand dollars have been received in London enroute to New York coming via Suez More are on the way by the same route and it is understood that the steamer Belgic due early in January from Hongkong and Yokohama will bring a lot The secret of this movement is alleged to be that trade dollars can now be purchased in China at a rate which enables the importer to lay them down in New York for 92½ cents making a profit on the transaction of six cents It is also understood that to morrow Beck will present a bill in congress providing for the redemption of trade dollars Seligman Bros of New York are understood to be handling the transaction which lends color to a rumor of an understanding with Secretary Sherman and Linderman

Washington Special Nov 18 to Chicago Times

A prominent western Democratic member of congress in commenting upon the president's change of policy towards the south remarked to-day that it could not be condemned, for there was no doubt that matters had been carried with a high hand in the southern states at the recent elections It was wrong in the first place he said for our friends down there to make pledges to Mr Hayes for he would have been compelled to do as he did anyway but in the second place it was wrong for them to violate their pledges and Mr Hayes can't be blamed if he gets indignant about it The southern Democrats he continued must be convinced that everything is not lovely for us in the north by any means and if we elect the president two years from now and retain control of the senate they will have to behave and let us elect a northern speaker of the next house Something has got to be done too to take this war claim business out of politics Out where I live people have got the idea that if the Democrats get into power the south will run the government pay for slaves pay the rebel debt and all claims for damages and something must be done to convince the north that no such purpose exists The southern Democrats must stay in the background until the next generation

The Plea of the Solid South.

[From the Charleston News and Courier (Dem.)]

The south is ready to be judged by her actions The south is not willing to be judged by the fears of her friends or the hopes of her foes Before the next general election shall take place the south and the union will have had two years experience of the solid south The events of these years will demonstrate as facts alone can that the solid south means good order, absolute freedom justice and respect for the rights of all classes in the south and so far as the solid south can accomplish it concord peace honor and public and private faith for the whole American Union For this the people of South Carolina strive and labor but they and the people of every other southern state will find their difficulties increased a thousand fold by any conduct in the north that will warrant the idea that the south is not wanted and that her best efforts for the highest purpose are misjudged and even treated as crimes Such a conviction will make it difficult to insure domestic tranquility and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity The organization of a solid north against the solid south will be a long, strides downwards for its sequences must be aggression in the one and military rule in the end

James McDougall has disposed of his interest in the Centennial Mining Company and will engage in an enterprise of his own He received $620 for his share in those diggings

TUESDAY MORNING, DEC 3 1878.

THE MAN OF COLOR IN POLITICS.

For the greater part of the present century the negro question in one shape or another has been the most prominent thing in American politics. Many times there have been events which it was supposed would take it out of politics forever; but every time it has risen again, and to-day it is still in the foreground, the same old question in another of its Protean shapes. When the Missouri Compromise was adopted two generations ago it was confidently announced that we should have no more of the negro question. The slave states would project their peculiar institution westward, south of a certain parallel of latitude; the free states would project theirs north of that line, and both sections minding their own business would live happily together. That was not the end but the beginning of our troubles over the man of color. From that time till the repeal of the Missouri Compromise in 1854, the negro question was gradually absorbing, or taking the lead, of everything else in our politics. But that repeal, operating through the majesty of popular sovereignty, was to make the "nigger," as the language of the times phrased it, disappear surely. The slaveholders obtaining their wish the north was to yield, and the negro, everywhere recognized as a chattel either in possession or in prospect, was to sink out of political consideration as completely as the ass, the ox, or other chattel. But he didn't. On the contrary he redoubled his political activity. The history of our politics from 1850 to 1865 is little else than the history of the American negro during that long and momentous period. But the war had set him free. Now, surely, we were to be rid of him. But he immediately presented himself in new and more puzzling aspects than ever. A constitutional amendment transformed him from a "nigger" to a "colored man," and from that to an American citizen. Now beyond all question we were to be done with the negro. Again we were mistaken. Still another amendment made him a voter. Then in several of the states unscrupulous and dishonest men, with the aid of the ignorant and simple colored voter, who was anxious to show his fidelity to the party which had given him his freedom, set up and carried on the most corrupt of governments. The whites combined, the carpet-bagger was driven out, and the negro, by various methods, all partaking more or less strongly of outrage and violence, was virtually deprived of the right of suffrage. But this was soon to be adjusted. The general government was asked to hold off its hand and let parties divide in the south on new questions, each courting the negro. This was the way to take the negro question out of politics. But there is the same old failure. Instead of two parties, each soliciting the colored vote, there is but one party in the southern states. There is a solid south built on the white vote and on contemptuous defiance of the black man's right of suffrage; and this is met by a responsive rising in the north, which signifies that the negro question is still about as prominent a factor in our politics as at any former time. One of the main questions for 1880 will be whether the negro's rights as a voter are to be protected, or not. This is the question which lies at the bottom of northern objections to a solid south. Here, therefore, is the negro, a leading figure in our politics still. As on former occasions he flings himself into the political arena; and past experience doesn't give much room to hope that he will soon retire behind the scenes. The fact is, the difficulties which grow out of the antagonism of races are among the most continuous and permanent of all disturbing elements in politics. The history of different races occupying the same country has proved this so always. With regret we conclude that we are not yet so near the end of the negro question as many people think. The south, which could do most to end it, is little inclined that way: yet the southern whites are, after all, only acting on almost universal principles of human nature. They don't want the intrusion of the negro in politics, and since they can't dispose of him by making a bold avowal of their wishes and intentions, they take the more effective method of suppressing him by indirection, while claiming at the same time to be warm supporters of his rights. This, as other phases of the negro question have done, meets a response in the north which keeps the negro in politics, and will make him a principal figure in the next national contest as he has been in so many preceding ones. It is evident we are not rid of him yet, and probably shall not soon be. We brought him to this country and multiplied him for our gain, and he is with us to stay. It costs something to do wrong, and when the wrong is a great one the consequences there of abide long.

BRITISH AND AMERICAN INDUSTRY.

English journals admit that the effect of American competition is being severely felt by their manufacturing towns, and this fact is enumerated as one of the leading causes of the present unusual depression of England's industry. In many lines of goods manufactured formerly in great quantities almost wholly for the American trade, business has nearly ceased, and exportation is practically at an end. A letter from Birmingham to the New York Times says that the export trade of that city to America, which for many years was enormously large and included nearly the whole list of the wide variety of commodities which that great manufacturing center produces, is actually dead. Formerly we had from Birmingham every conceivable article of ironmongery; but now our own products not only mainly supply our markets, but are competing with those of England in many parts of the world, and even to some extent in England itself. Electro plating had its origin in Birmingham, and a few years ago employed nearly 25,000 persons there. But the correspondent was assured by a manufacturer that America was now selling electro-plated goods in that very town. In the nail trade Birmingham employed 50,000 persons in 1865. There are scarcely 20,000 so employed now. A few years ago one firm in that city was turning out from 7,000,000 to 8,000,000 gross of screws annually, and America was a principal customer. America now imports very little in this line, and actually competes with Birmingham in foreign markets. It is well known that among the almost endless manufactures of this great centre of industry small arms have had a leading place; yet it is a fact that during the late war between Russia and Turkey Birmingham did but a small trade for either country, while Americas supplied both with large stores of arms. Russia felt the superior quality of the American arm in the hand of the Turk on many a bloody field.

English economists cannot see that the prospect for revival of their industry through trade with the United States is in any degree hopeful, especially against our protective tariff. In America capital has accumulated and a wide market has been gained, both of which conditions are essential to successful prosecution of manufacturing industry. Besides we have been through our era of speculation and currency inflation, and these years of adversity have begun to bear wholesome fruit. Losses of the reckless and extravagant period, during which, as the London Times phrases it, "it seemed as if America never would tire of borrowing or Europe of lending," have been met, and a foundation is laid for a more stable and well-balanced prosperity. The great English journal concedes that in spite of the severity of the wrench, American capital and enterprise have slowly but surely righted themselves, while England is still suffering from the revel of expenditure and speculation induced largely by the effect of American prodigality on production and wages in England. America had free handling of what appeared to be a limitless supply of borrowed money; and as we imported from Europe, and chiefly from England, nearly everything which that money, as well as our own earnings would buy, this in turn gave rise in England to a spasmodic increase of employment and an excessive fastness of living, from which, now that the American market has failed, there is a necessary reaction. In another respect the advantage rests with the United States. Much of the money borrowed from Europe was put into railways and other enterprises in new parts of our country; and while the foreign lenders have lost much of their capital, yet the undertakings on which the bondholders' money was spent remain, and are beginning to rise with the rising tide of business. The railways built thus can't be taken away, and they are now beginning to play an important part in the new development of the country. Again, for a number of years we have been buying up our debts, till three-fourths of the whole are now held by our own people. This capital will not be wasted so recklessly as were the hundreds of millions borrowed from Europe during the ten years prior to 1873.

It argues, we are told, not only official delinquency in Gov. Thayer, but also treason to his party, when his acts are such as justly obtain the approval and commendation of any except hide-bound partisans and organ-grinders, who think that because an official is a member of their party they therefore own him in fee simple, and have a right to prescribe his course. The ninety-dollar expert supposed he was going to be dictator in state affairs because his party won a partial victory last June,—forgetting that his own ignominious defeat upon the same occasion when his party elected the governor and carried the legislature was a sign of the actual estimation in which he is held. It is a very clear indication of an impartial discharge of duty on the part of the executive when it is observed that the experts and swindlers of the Grover-Chadwick administration are mightily displeased with him. Branded as Tony now is, it would be a sad fate for any honest official to receive his approbation. Gov. Thayer is probably looking to a discharge of his duty rather than to future political preferment; but even if the latter were his chief aim he could, by accepting Tony's championship, procure his own defeat as easily and by as great majority as Tony always does. Of course THE OREGONIAN is not the "especial champion" of Gov. Thayer, or any other individual either in public or private life. It may yet see cause to criticise the governor. Journalism has many duties, and also many privileges, which do not fall within the province of organ-grinding.

Russia now distinctly tells Turkey that while she will withdraw her forces from certain places in conformity with the Berlin treaty, she will nevertheless avail herself of the right not relinquished by that treaty to hold Adrianople and Thrace until Turkey is ready to accept Russia's final terms. Here is the point where Russia will press the war indemnity, which of course Turkey cannot pay. This will keep the Russian troops in their present advantageous positions, ready to act as future circumstances may require. Russia's notice to the porte that she intends to hold the strategic positions now in her possession shows how England was outwitted in the Berlin treaty in which her ministers claimed so great a triumph. The repeated settlements of that eastern question resemble somewhat our frequent settlements of the negro question. It is one of those irrational equations in which a quantity always remains that resists solution. The Afghan difficulty, which now attracts much attention, is only a corollary of the main problem.

In an article in the last number of the North American Review Horatio Seymour reckons the present annual increase of population in the United States at a million and a half, or more than four thousand a day. As our population on June 1, 1870, was but little short of thirty-nine millions, it ought by this time to be nearly or quite fifty millions.

Senator Booth Criticised.

The New York Sun thus criticises Senator Booth's recent utterances on the Chinese question. It says:

Now that American citizens in China are not making as much money as formerly and now that the Chinese in America, by thrift, frugality and strict attention to their own business, are beginning to prosper in this land of liberty and equal rights, Senator Booth proclaims that it is about time for the treaty to cease to operate. He cries with Kearney, that the Chinese must go. Kearney wants to club them over the head, to drive them in packs down to the seashore and into the Pacific ocean; Booth, who has learned, since October, 1876, that an odious end can sometimes be better attained by fraud than by force, suggests a scheme for swindling the Chinese government into a modification of the treaty, so that we, who have nothing to lose, will gain everything, and they, who have everything to lose, will lose it.

Many citizens of Eastern Oregon are entering timber land before the new law comes in force.

CITY.

A STEAMER AND HANDSOME BOAT.—Kamm's new boat the Lurline, recently built on the Willamette slough just above Wiedler's saw mill, made her first trip yesterday morning, and in the afternoon was put on the route between this city and Vancouver. The new boat is of the same dimensions as the Bonita, and her hull is an exact copy of the hull of that craft. The cabin and upper works are of most elaborate finish, and when the fancy touches now being given them are completed, will be fully equal to those of the Wide West. The machinery of the boat, which is all new and of the best manufacture, was selected personally by Mr. Kamm, who is a practical engineer, while on his recent visit to the east. For speed, strength and beauty, the Lurline is said to be second to no boat, excepting, of course, the Wide West, which plys the waters hereabout as the flagship of the Vancouver, takes command of the finely appointed boat, and Mr. Horace G. Daniels, the popular river clerk, will look after the passenger interests, and do the social honors.

GENERAL COLLECTIONS.—The Churchman says: "At a recent session of our annual convention the Advent season was designated as the time for making collections for domestic missions. It is understood that the collections shall be taken up on the first Sunday of the season, unless it shall be found by the clergy to change the day. It is rather late now to give notice of the time of such collection for the first Sunday in Advent, but those who have forgotten the matter are hereby reminded that the collection should be taken up some time during the season."

CHURCH.—According to the Churchman the following is the calendar for December: 1st, Sunday in Advent; 8th, second Sunday in Advent; 15th, third Sunday in Advent; 21st, Ember Days; 21st, St. Thomas; 22d, fourth Sunday in Advent; 25th, Christmas Day; 26th, St. Stephen; 27th, St. John the Evangelist; 28th, Holy Innocents; 29th, first Sunday after Christmas.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY.—James Backenstos, who shot and dangerously wounded John F. Moore on Saturday evening, was arrested yesterday morning on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon. He waived examination and was held to await the action of the grand jury in the sum of $600. Backenstos furnished the required bail at once and was released.

FROM ASTORIA.—A telegram from Trenchard & Upshur, Astoria, yesterday afternoon says that the steamship City of Chester crossed out at 6 o'clock yesterday morning; that the steamship California tried to cross out but returned. The bar was breaking heavily; no vessel, but foggy.

THE HOME.—The third "Home" social gathering under the auspices of the ladies of the Methodist church, will be held at the residence of Mrs. A. H. Morgan, corner of Taylor and Seventh streets, on Tuesday evening, December 3d. Friends of the church cordially invited.

STEAMERS.—The steamer Idaho sailed from San Francisco Sunday for this port with passengers and freight. The steamship Great Republic has arrived at San Francisco. The steamer Eider will sail from San Francisco for this port next Saturday.

GOSPEL MASS MEETING.—Rev. J. A Cruzan will lead the meeting to-night at the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. A brief sermon will be followed with a conference and inquiry meeting.

"Hank" Cushing bears his new found honors with becoming meekness and dignity.

The dumb "hoss" at the ministrel show took the goats of the gallery by perfect storm.

The Waverly Social Club will give their first party on the evening of Wednesday, 11th inst.

There will be a stated meeting of Oregon Lodge of Protection No. 1, this (Tuesday) evening, for work.

Moore, who was shot by Backenstos, Saturday evening, is improving. Hopes of his recovery are entertained.

The steamboat Willamette Chief lies at the lower section of the O. S. N. Co's dock, and is being repaired by a company of workmen.

A number of piles have been driven just south of the foot of Morrison street, for the wharf which is soon to be constructed at that point.

Andrew Dwyer was found guilty of larceny as a bailee, in the state circuit court yesterday morning. Judge Bellinger has set next morning for passing sentence.

CATHOLIC FAIR.

Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather and counter attractions, a large crowd was in attendance at the Catholic Fair last evening. The hall does not seem to wane, but rather increase. There is a number of very handsome articles still unsold. There are still on hand a number of useful and valuable articles which will be disposed of this evening, as soon as the required number of chances have been taken. Those who have not taken chances yet should do so without delay, as it is too late. Among the articles to be disposed of is a splendid sewing machine and also a silver ware. Financially, the fair has been very successful. To night the fair will be brought to a close.

W. H. Love, city assessor, has just completed a statement relative to the valuation of city property:

FIREMEN'S ELECTION.

Yesterday the annual election of chief engineer of the Portland fire department, and first and second assistants, came off. It was one of the most quiet elections of the kind which has come off for years. There was no opposing candidate, for chief, and Harry Morgan, the present incumbent, "walked over the track." The best of feeling characterized the contest, if indeed it can be so called. The following is the result

THE SOLDIERS' REUNION.

The bright youth who gathers the city news for the Standard has had a genuine scare. The shades of Hamlet or the ghost of Banquo suddenly appearing to him could not have caused each particular hair to stand more erectly. The cause of his fright was the issuing of an address, published in the OREGONIAN and the evening papers, calling for a social reunion on the 10th of December of the "boys who wore the blue." We have not a word of censure for the Standard's foolish and childish prattle, but we will just remind the writer of the article (if the youth afforded to is the author) that while he was in swaddling clothes and had hardly made his initial charge on nature's breastworks these "old plugs" were at the front, where brave men met in the smoke and flame of battle, and that while they came together to take over old times, the privations and hardships they endured, and the dangers and victories through which they passed, should there perchance drop in upon them one of the "boys who wore the gray," he will find a hearty welcome, for we honor bravery wherever found, but despise the empty blatherskite of grown up children and the cowardice of those who have no recollections of an honorable service either in the cause of the blue or of the gray.

ONE OF THE "OLD PLUGS."

A MATTER OF JUSTICE.

We are in receipt of the following note which is published as an act of simple justice to the party directly concerned:

I notice an item in several papers of late stating that Ed. Telleson, saloon keeper at Willamina had been arrested for selling liquor to Indians. I wish to state that I never kept a saloon nor do I intend to, but the facts of the case are thus: Some time ago complaint was lodged against one E. Jellison for selling whisky to Indians, and on the 17th instant by reason of the similarity of names a warrant was served on me for the crime and I was taken to Portland, but on being confronted by the witnesses the mistake was apparent and I was released, the U. S. marshal returning with me to Sheridan and securing the right man.

You will greatly oblige myself and friends by publishing this so that the truth may be known and justice done me. E. TELLESON.

SHERIDAN, Nov. 30, 1878.

WRECKED.

The British Bark Eskbank Runs on a Coral Reef Near Honolulu and is a Total Wreck—Portions of Her Cargo Saved

To Col. J. R. Farish we are indebted for the following particulars of the loss of the Eskbank:

The British bark, Eskbank, Barr, master, from Glasgow to this city via Honolulu, was wrecked about eight miles below Honolulu on Diamond Point—coral reef. She is a total loss, the bulk of the cargo for Honolulu was saved, but for this city it was lost. Vessel and cargo were insured. She left Glasgow May 23d. She was built at Govan, Scotland, was 8 9 tons register. She was owned by J. McCrindell of Glasgow. She loaded here last season with wheat by J. McCracken & Co.

PERSONAL.

Judge R. P. Boise of Salem is in the city.

We acknowledge a pleasant call from Mr. J. E. Fithian, who, until quite recently, was editor of the Topeka (Kansas) Blade. Mr. Fithian contemplates permanently residing in Oregon.

MAGNETISM AND MEDICINE.

WONDERFUL CURES BY THE CELEBRATED HEALER, DR. D. HALL McLENNAN, JR.

Have been troubled with varicose or enlarged veins and relaxation of the muscles for two years. Consulted a number of physicians. The only thing they recommended was to wear an elastic stocking, but finding my case getting worse I applied to Dr. McLennan, who cured me in three weeks without using any medicine.

The above is the recommendation of Kenneth J. McQuarrie, book keeper with Messrs Corbitt & Molesy, First street opposite New Market Theater Portland, Oregon.

Read the following letter which is a copy from the original:

EAST PORTLAND, Oregon, Nov 25, 1878

CALLENDER'S MINSTRELS.—On the occasion of the first appearance in this city of Callender's Minstrels New Market Theater was jammed to overflowing. Every seat from parquette to gallery found an occupant. The curtain rose on the "burnt cork crescent" at precisely 8 o'clock, disclosing 16 minstrels, including musicians. There were three end men. The castanets were represented by Messrs Grace, Mack and McIntosh, and the tambos by Anderson, Moore and Devonear. Mr W. W. Morris presided as "middle man." Part first opened with an overture by all the minstrels, which was rendered with much spirit and in capital time. James Grace sang the ballad "Gabriel, Blow the Horn," which was hugely enjoyed. "Little Bessie" was beautifully rendered by Samuel Jones, which won a deserved encore. "Ikey Mun Levi" was given by Pete Devonear with capital effect. "The Gospel Rail" was very humorously sung by Ned Moore. "Kiss Me Good Night," by Geo. Bohee, was one of the musical gems of the evening. One of the most mirth provoking features of the evening was the "Georgia Brigade." The introduction of the "dumb boss" was no less novel than ludicrous. It was more than applauded at the echo. Following this came a very artistically performed jig by Charles Anderson. The Hamptons in their quaint jubilee chantings was quite enjoyable. The comic sketch by Grace, Moore and McIntosh entitled "Fast and Slow," provoked much merriment. The banjo solo by Bohee was a marvellous exhibition of musical skill. His variations of "Home Sweet Home," and a medley of popular songs, was very fine. "Uncle Jasper's Home," a plantation act, was exceedingly amusing. "Bob Mack's" imitation of a hen was quite "stunning," it must be seen to be enjoyed. This very enjoyable performance concluded with a genuine plantation festive walk around, break down entitled "Sunset in Georgia."

Of these minstrels it can be said that their humor is original, their fun spontaneous and infectious, and while being of the broadest and most uproarious character, it never exceeds the limits of refinement. Their most startling characteristic is their wholesome and hearty simplicity, dealing rather with the humor of real negro life than with the slang of city streets. Another performance this evening. An entire change of programme is announced

FIENDISH MURDER AT THE DALLES.

A CONVICTED PRISONER MURDERED IN THE CORRIDOR OF THE JAIL—JAMES COOK CUTS GEORGE CRAIG'S THROAT

About half past 5 o'clock on Sunday evening the good people of The Dalles were shocked by the report that James Cook, confined in the county jail under sentence for robbery and awaiting transportation to the penitentiary, had murdered his accomplice, George Craig, under circumstances of unparalleled atrocity. The two men robbed Timothy Baldwin's saloon last September, and Craig was arrested in Portland. On his return here he divulged enough of his guilt in the case to implicate Cook and the officers went in search of him, and were told he had gone to Boise. The following day they returned to the house of his Indian woman, and seeing a large box in the room inquired what it contained. The woman answered

CURTIS INTAH.

Deputy Marshal Haine, however, was not so readily appeased by that explanation, and covered the box with his revolver, at the same time bidding his associate overturn it. The box was raised and Cook stepped out, coolly remarking, "Well, you have got me coppered." He was then placed in jail to await his trial. At the present term of court Craig pleaded guilty, but Cook stood his trial and was convicted. Judge McArthur sentenced them to seven years each in the penitentiary and they were to have been taken below on Monday. At the time the homicide occurred four prisoners were in the corridor of the jail—Craig Cook, a Chinaman and Tharp, sentenced for horse stealing

SUPPER WAS OVER

And the prisoners were sitting in the corridor, Tharp sat by the stove with his feet upon the fender to feel the kinks from the weight of the shackle. Craig sat on a bench between the two doors of cells. At last Cook rose and commenced pacing slowly up and down the corridor. None of his fellow prisoners noticed him and he seemed abstracted in thought. Suddenly the Chinaman and Tharp were aroused by a terrible cry from Craig. Oh God, take him off!" Sheriff Crossen was writing in the outer room and rushed at the first sound to unlock the door. He reached there as soon as Tharp, who was encumbered with his heavy shackle Cook had cut Craig's throat with a razor

FROM EAR TO EAR,

Nearly severing the head from the body. Tharp caught Craig to keep him from falling and carried him into one of the cells, where he died in about five minutes from what your reporter could glean, in a conversation with the sheriff and the two other prisoners, it must have been the work of an instant. The convict Tharp said, "Why, sir, forty men in there could not have prevented it. He knew what he was going to do, and nobody else did. Ten seconds must have done the bloody work." On sunday afternoon Cook was visited in the jail by the Indian woman with whom he had been living and it is probable she gave him the murderous weapon, which was only too fit for the work.

A DEVILISH MONSTER

Sheriff Crossen at once sent a messenger for medical aid and quickly locked the man defer us in a separate cell. When your reporter arrived there Cook was walking up and down the cell and quietly smoking a pipe. There is nothing in his appearance to indicate the fiendish brute he has proven himself to be. He is about six feet in height, with immense muscular arms and it is evident that poor Craig was a mere child in his hands. He has light hair and blue eyes, and, to see him ordinarily he would not be a repulsive countenance. The scene in the jail beggars all description. The floors were pools of blood, while the form of the dead man, not yet twenty-two years of age, lay in the dingy cell with the shackles on his legs, and his sightless eyes turned to a sky he could never see again.

THE MURDERED YOUTH

Was a son of the late Dr Craig of this city, and his aged mother still resides among us. He had the benefit of a good parental training, but of late years has become idle and dissolute. Up to within a short time of the robbery for which he was arrested he had been employed as a fishermen on the rivers here and the Cascades. Being about to leave for the penitentiary on Monday's boat his aged mother went to the jail to spend the night with him, and just arrived there in time to hear of his tragic end. Her cries would have melted the heart of any man not steeped to the very lips in crime. An angry crowd swayed about the jail doors, and threats of lynching were freely made, but better counsels prevailed, and up to 7 o'clock all is quiet.

CONSIDERABLE CENSURE

Has been visited upon sheriff Crossen for this terrible affair, but much of it is undeserved. It is true that Cook threatened Craig's life some days ago, but since then they have been seen conversing together in an apparently friendly manner. All the prisoners were searched on Friday night, and as no visitors came in on Saturday the precaution was deemed unnecessary. Cook knew that the usual search would be made before locking the jail on Sunday night and availed himself of his only opportunity. The horrible affair has cast a gloom over the entire city, and those who were the most ready to condemn Cook for his evil ways are full of sympathy for his afflicted relatives.

Cure of Dyspepsia and Chronic Diarrhœa.

For the benefit of suffering humanity I deem it my imperative duty to make known to the public what has been done for me by Dr. C. M Wood. Having been subject to dyspepsia for some 12 or 14 years, and so ailming to grow worse until about four months ago, when it ran into chronic diarrhœa and assumed a very dangerous condition—so much so that I found I would be compelled to stop my duties or find some relief, and having seen one of Dr Wood's circulars, I concluded to consult him and finally to be treated by him for one month the result of which I give in a few words: I feel that I am as sound as I ever have been, and that so far as my disease is concerned, I am perfectly cured. JOHN R CURRY.

PROF. M. BRENAN.

His Wonderful Success
IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL
Chronic and Private Diseases.

He has astonished the People of this Coast by his skillful Operations.

HE HAS TAUGHT IN HIS public and private lectures the true principles of health and life to both male and female He has also warned them against habits that would be likely to produce disease in plain and comprehensive language. But where he has found them wrecked and broken down by disease mentally and physically he has restored them to health and happiness for it is well understood that without health there can be no happiness

DR BRENAN has made a specialty in the treatment of the following diseases Catarrh Bronchitis and all diseases of the throat and chest by an entirely new system only known to himself Diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs including Spermatorrhea Seminal Weakness or premature loss of Manhood In the treatment of these diseases he has made a world wide reputation by his astonishing success not only on this Coast but throughout the whole United States. Diseases of the stomach, bowels liver and kidneys as well as all diseases of the blood and skin he has become master of and never fails to give relief at once and permanently cures the case if he is applied to in time

THE DOCTOR HAS GIVEN SPECIAL LECTURES to ladies only for years and is perfectly familiar with all female complaints and understands their delicate and refined organization as well as the proper remedies which should be used to allay their suffering and restore them to perfect health

THE DOCTOR HAS THIS ADVANTAGE over most physicians—he can tell the patients disease the moment he comes in contact with them without any aid from the individual This access counts in part for his great professional success

All surgical operations can be performed by his skillful hand, and the patient need not fear the result.

DR. BRENAN will send to those living at a distance and who can not well visit his office a list of Printed Questions and by the answers when filled out he can tell the disease as well as the proper treatment almost as well as seeing the patient personally and will forward the proper medicines or instruments to any part of the country with full instructions and advice. Each letter requiring advice or list of questions must contain two postage stamps

Everything strictly confidential and honorable.

THE DOCTOR has studied in the best Medical Schools in Europe and three years in the Jefferson Medical College at Philadelphia, as more than one of the Medical men of the Medical Faculty in this State can testify

CAUTION. Persons coming to Portland, requiring medical treatment of the proper kind, who desire to consult with me, will please beware of persons who may try to coax them away to other so-called Doctors through pretended friendship for the patients Look out for them they are knaves prompted by selfish motives and what they can make. Be sure and ask for DR. PAUL M. BRENAN the Medical Lecturer and read his sign on his door
